HATCHER LANDS IN PIKE

About Jan.1st, 1918, when a coal famine threatened this country, James liatcher, one of the best known and highly respected residents of 17ko county, Ky., began breaking ground on his mineral lands near Keyser, on the Big Sandy division of the Chssa-peake & Ohlo railway. This property consists of 3200 neres of high grade splint and gas coals, and is underfuld by five workable seams of coal aggrerating twenty-five feet in thickness On account of serious labor short-age occasioned by army drafts, contruction work was seriously retardstruction work was seriously retard-ed, although shipments commenced from Mine No. 1 in September. This mine is operating in what is known as the Elkhorn No. 2 seam.

Mr. Hatcher is contemplating making further railroad extensions and about one and one-half miles of grading is aiready completed. Eventually four mines will be opened on this property. Timber necessary for the construction of additional tippies and other mine buildings is being out from ped throughout, although purchases of the generators and bollers have been temporarily deferred, account of extreme high prices and shortage of all mining equipment. It is planned to construct one hundred modern miners homes, twelve of which are already completed, also a three—story store and office building. Although previously interested as iessor in various mining operations in eastern Kentucky, this & Mr. Hatcher's first venture as an operator, and he is determined to make these four mines the class of the district. An ultimate expenditure of one quarter militon dollars is contemplated.
